STATISTICS OF THE GLASS-EYE TRADE OF THE UNITED STATES. It is not generally known that the entire glass-eye business of the United States is in the hands of one firm, Messrs. Thissman & Paulding, of Pittsburg, and but few people have any idea of the immensity of their business. There is in the United States a deficit of some 60,000 eyes. Of this number about 25,some 60,000 eyes. Of this number about 35,000 make use of glass-eyes. Some rich, aristocratic old gentlemen have their eyes made to order. Those are manufactured by hand, with great care and nicety, a certain fire and vigor being thrown into them more then realistic. We know a Mr. Johnson who is greatly improved by wearing one of these glass eyes. The proved by wearing one of these glass eyes. The young ladies dote on him, and say he looks like a poet, "his eye with such fine frenzy roll-ing." Such are some of the advantages of a glass eye.

The cheapest kind of eyes are the light blue. The cheapest kind of eyes are the light blue. The poor people, who cannot afford luxuries, usually west these, whatever the color of their natural opties. When a man has a genuine black eye supplemented by one of dim, dismal blue, it produces a weind effect. The strange appearance is at till more height good when the black. ance is still more heightened when the black eye gives evidence of a glass or so too much of whisky; its contrast with the sleepy sober-ress of the blue eye is apt to astonish a stranger. Several years ago Messrs. Theisman &

Paulding were burst out in the big fire in Pittaburg. The sorzow, the ruin, the misery this caused can only be appreciated by a one-eyed man. Almost all had to content themselves with second-hand eyes, dim, and considerably the worse for wear and tear. siderably the worse for wear and tear.

A well-known merchant of New York, who was wanting in optics, dissected a doll of his daughter to procure an eye, so that he might appear in society decently, and a poor man in this very city, in a similar strait, made use of appear in society decently, and a poor man in this very city, in a similar strait, made use of those large variegated drystals of which children are so fond. His eye of many colors produced quite a sensation, and Messrs. Theisman & Paulding threw a quantity of Dolly Varden eyes on the market, but somehow they did not take and become the fashion, and the cargo was an entire lose.

Messrs. Theisman & Paulding have almost ntirely banished the French glass eye from his continent; the English eye never took well bere; was never popular. They are now engaged in supplying the Chinese market, and have invented a new patented aquiline eye just suited for the Mongoliane. They are also tentees of the strabismic glass eye, suitable for cross or cock eved people

With each dozin glass eyes, a copy of direc-ons how to wear glass eyes are sent. It is to be hoped that this book will be studied, as ome of our best citizens display a disgraceful arclessness in the manner in which they wear beir eyes. To be glared at by an eye upside down is apt to disturb a man; indeed, it is extremely disagreeable.

We understand that two gentlemen of this We understand that two gentiemen or tans-oity, who have been in the cotton business, in-tend to start a glass-eye manufactory. We see no reason why this industry should not succeed here as well as at Pittsburg. Why should we depend on the North for our supply! Why should brave Southrons, who freely spilled their gore during the late struggle, see everything through Northern eyes! This new industry will give employment so many idle hands, to much idle capital. Come on with your glass eyes!—New Orleans Picayane.

THE STORY OF SCHLESWIG - HOL-

This question is breaking out again like a chronic case of smallpox. As it is of the highest importance that everybody should know what the Schleswig-Holstein fuss commenced about, here it is in a nut-shell. Denmark originally owned the Schleswig province and got swindled out of it in some way, some say ough England. This was in 1864, and the Austrians and Frussians becoming the owners of it, began to quarrel over their booty, and, when the fight was over, Austria found herself bowed down with a weight of woe at a place called Sadowa in 1896. Then Napoleon, through a document which is known by diplomatists as the treaty of Prague, induced Prussia to agree the treaty of Prague, induced Prussia to agree that the Schleswigers should be permitted to declare their preference for or against annexa-tion to Prussia at the polls. It is useless to inform our readers of what they know nothing about, that the Prussians have from time to time continued to do nothing of the kind. They are said to pay not the slightest attention to any wishes of the poor Schleswigers, but to punish such as continue to evince a desire to adhere to their Danish nationality. This is hard on the Schleswigers, but perhaps not harder than it is on the warm there. The Danes who have continued to remain Danish have been expelled by the Prussians, while the Copenhagen Government has directed its representative at Berlin to ask for an explanation. In the event of persist-ence on the part of Prussia, Denmark, it is thought, will proceed to resaliate by expelling Germans from the Danieh provinces, and them

It is suggested in the English press that It is suggested in the English press that Russia and England will take the part of the Danes against Prossia, which will allow France, with her grievances, to come in and recapture Alsatia and Lorraine and her traditions of the Rhine. It is really curlous how so small a matter as the possession of a potry province should endanger the peace of nearly all Europe, but it is on the cards. If it does smashed up for a short time. England is allied to Russia and Prussia by the closest personal ties of the reigning royal families, and the refuge afforded to the man of Sedan, his widow, and their son, the future Emperor, will not make France much of an enemy to England. If it comes to a scramble among the great Powers, it would seem that Prussia must be left alone with Austria, and that Prussia's difficulty will be France's opportunity .- St. Louis Republican.

Casar, before he entered any office, when he was a young gentleman in private life, owed $4,000,000, and he purchased the friendship of Quesor for $2,500,000. Marc Antony used $1,500,000 on his ides of March and paid before the Kalends of March. This was nothing, he squandered $720,000,000 of public money. And these fellows lived well. Esopus, who was a play actor, paid $400,000 for a single dish. Callgula spent $400,000 on a supper. Their wines guia spent $400,000 on a supper. Their wines were often kept for two ages, and some of them were sold for twenty dollars an ounce. Dishes were made of gold and silver, set with precious stones.
